

Colors for Fall

The colors for fall are very rich. You'll find all shades of grey and of course black and white. Rich reds, golds, silver and copper will be perfect with your animal prints and herringbones. Magenta, Fuchsia, Chartreuse, Electric blue, wine and berry will also be great accents for your checks, velvet and plaids.

Animal Prints and Metallic

Animal prints are the must-have accent for your 2007 wardrobe along with the Metallic look of gold, silver, pewter and copper in your purses and shoes. Sexy and sophisticated, bold prints add a major punch to the basics you already own. Wear your prints wisely. If you're donning a statement piece, like a cheetah print coat, keep the rest of your look simple and solid. If you opt for accessories, choose only one type of print per outfit — it's best to avoid mixing and matching. Leopard pumps, boots and flats are perfect when paired with jeans and a chic black knit, and Zebra prints look great with anything red or black. For a super luxe look, try an oversized metallic bag with your animal print.

Mad for Plaid

Whether it's Tartan, Blackwatch or Glen, plaid is all the rage this year. Why not add some traditional Scottish flair to your look? A classic white button-down tucked into a bold plaid pencil skirt is simple and fashionable. A pair of plaid boots or flats teamed with your favorite jeans and a fitted, girly jacket is preppy and chic. Or start small with a plaid handbag or scarf for a pop of punky British style. No matter how you wear it, this trend is sure to get you noticed.

It's a Cinch

Women have coveted the hourglass figure for centuries. Now it's a cinch to create those classic curves — no matter how you're shaped — with a wide belt. Belts are an important accessory and they're a simple and inexpensive way to look fashionable and curvy at the same time. A wider belt worn lower at the waist holds the tummy in and instantly updates your look. Belts can work magic on a dress, a knit or cinched over a simple T-shirt.

To Boot

Boots add a sexy urban edge to any outfit and there's a style out there for everyone. Ankle boots or "booties" put a mod spin on your dresses and skirts. A skinny jean tucked into an over-the-knee boot is trendy and chic, while traditional knee-high boots run the gamut, under jeans, dresses and skirts. For a casual daytime look, try a distressed vintage inspired boot or a fold-over pirate style.

Platform Heels Get Stacked

The stiletto heel is a thing of the past and platforms reign supreme. This is great news for those of you who love super high heels without the pain. Platforms evoke a vintage '40s feeling and provide lots of balance and support. Try some in patent leather — they're naughty and nice.
